

The Long Walk to Freedom is a multimedia, intergenerational, living history program that celebrates the power of an individual to make a difference. It honors:

28 Civil Rights Activists of the 60s

Robert Allen, Frances M. Beal, Janet Clinger, Phyllis Cunningham, C. Virginia Fields, Bettie Mae Fikes, Bob Fletcher, Moe Foner, Jon Fromer, Carolyn Goodman, Joanne Grant, Matt Herron, Philip Hutchings, Clarence Jones, Matt Jones, Yuri Kochiyama, Bob Moses, Carlos Munoz, Willie B. Wazir Peacock, Gloria Richardson, Constanca Romilly, Mendy Samstein, Walter Stafford, Muriel Tillinghast, Eleanor Walden, Wyatt Tee Walker, Cecil Williams, Roberta Yancy.

9 Youth Organizations of Today

CAAAY Organizing Asian Communities, G.E.M.S. - Girls Educational & Mentoring Services, I Love Our Youth, Make the Road by Walking, SAYA! South Asian Youth Action, Sista II Sista, The Brotherhood/Sister Sol, Voices of Youth, Youth Empowerment Mission.

The Long Walk to Freedom was created by Community Works, working with over 300 school students who researched, interviewed and documented the honorees. The expanded exhibit now also celebrates 12 California

In honor of Black History Month, Community Works and New Heritage Theatre Group, in conjunction with Columbia University present

THE LONG WALK TO FREEDOM

PORTRAITS OF CIVIL RIGHTS
ACTIVISTS THEN AND NOW

Honoring 28 activists of the 60s and the leaders of 9 youth organizations making a difference today

PREVIEW & RECEPTION
Tuesday, February 3, 2004 at 6pm
Low Library at Columbia University

(located on the campus of Columbia University at 535 West 116th Street, between Broadway & Amsterdam Avenue)

RSVP to Community Works, Tel 212-459-1854, Fax 212-459-1857, bh@communityworksnyc.org

Program features performances by Freedom Singer Matt Jones and Harlem's IMPACT Repertory Theatre